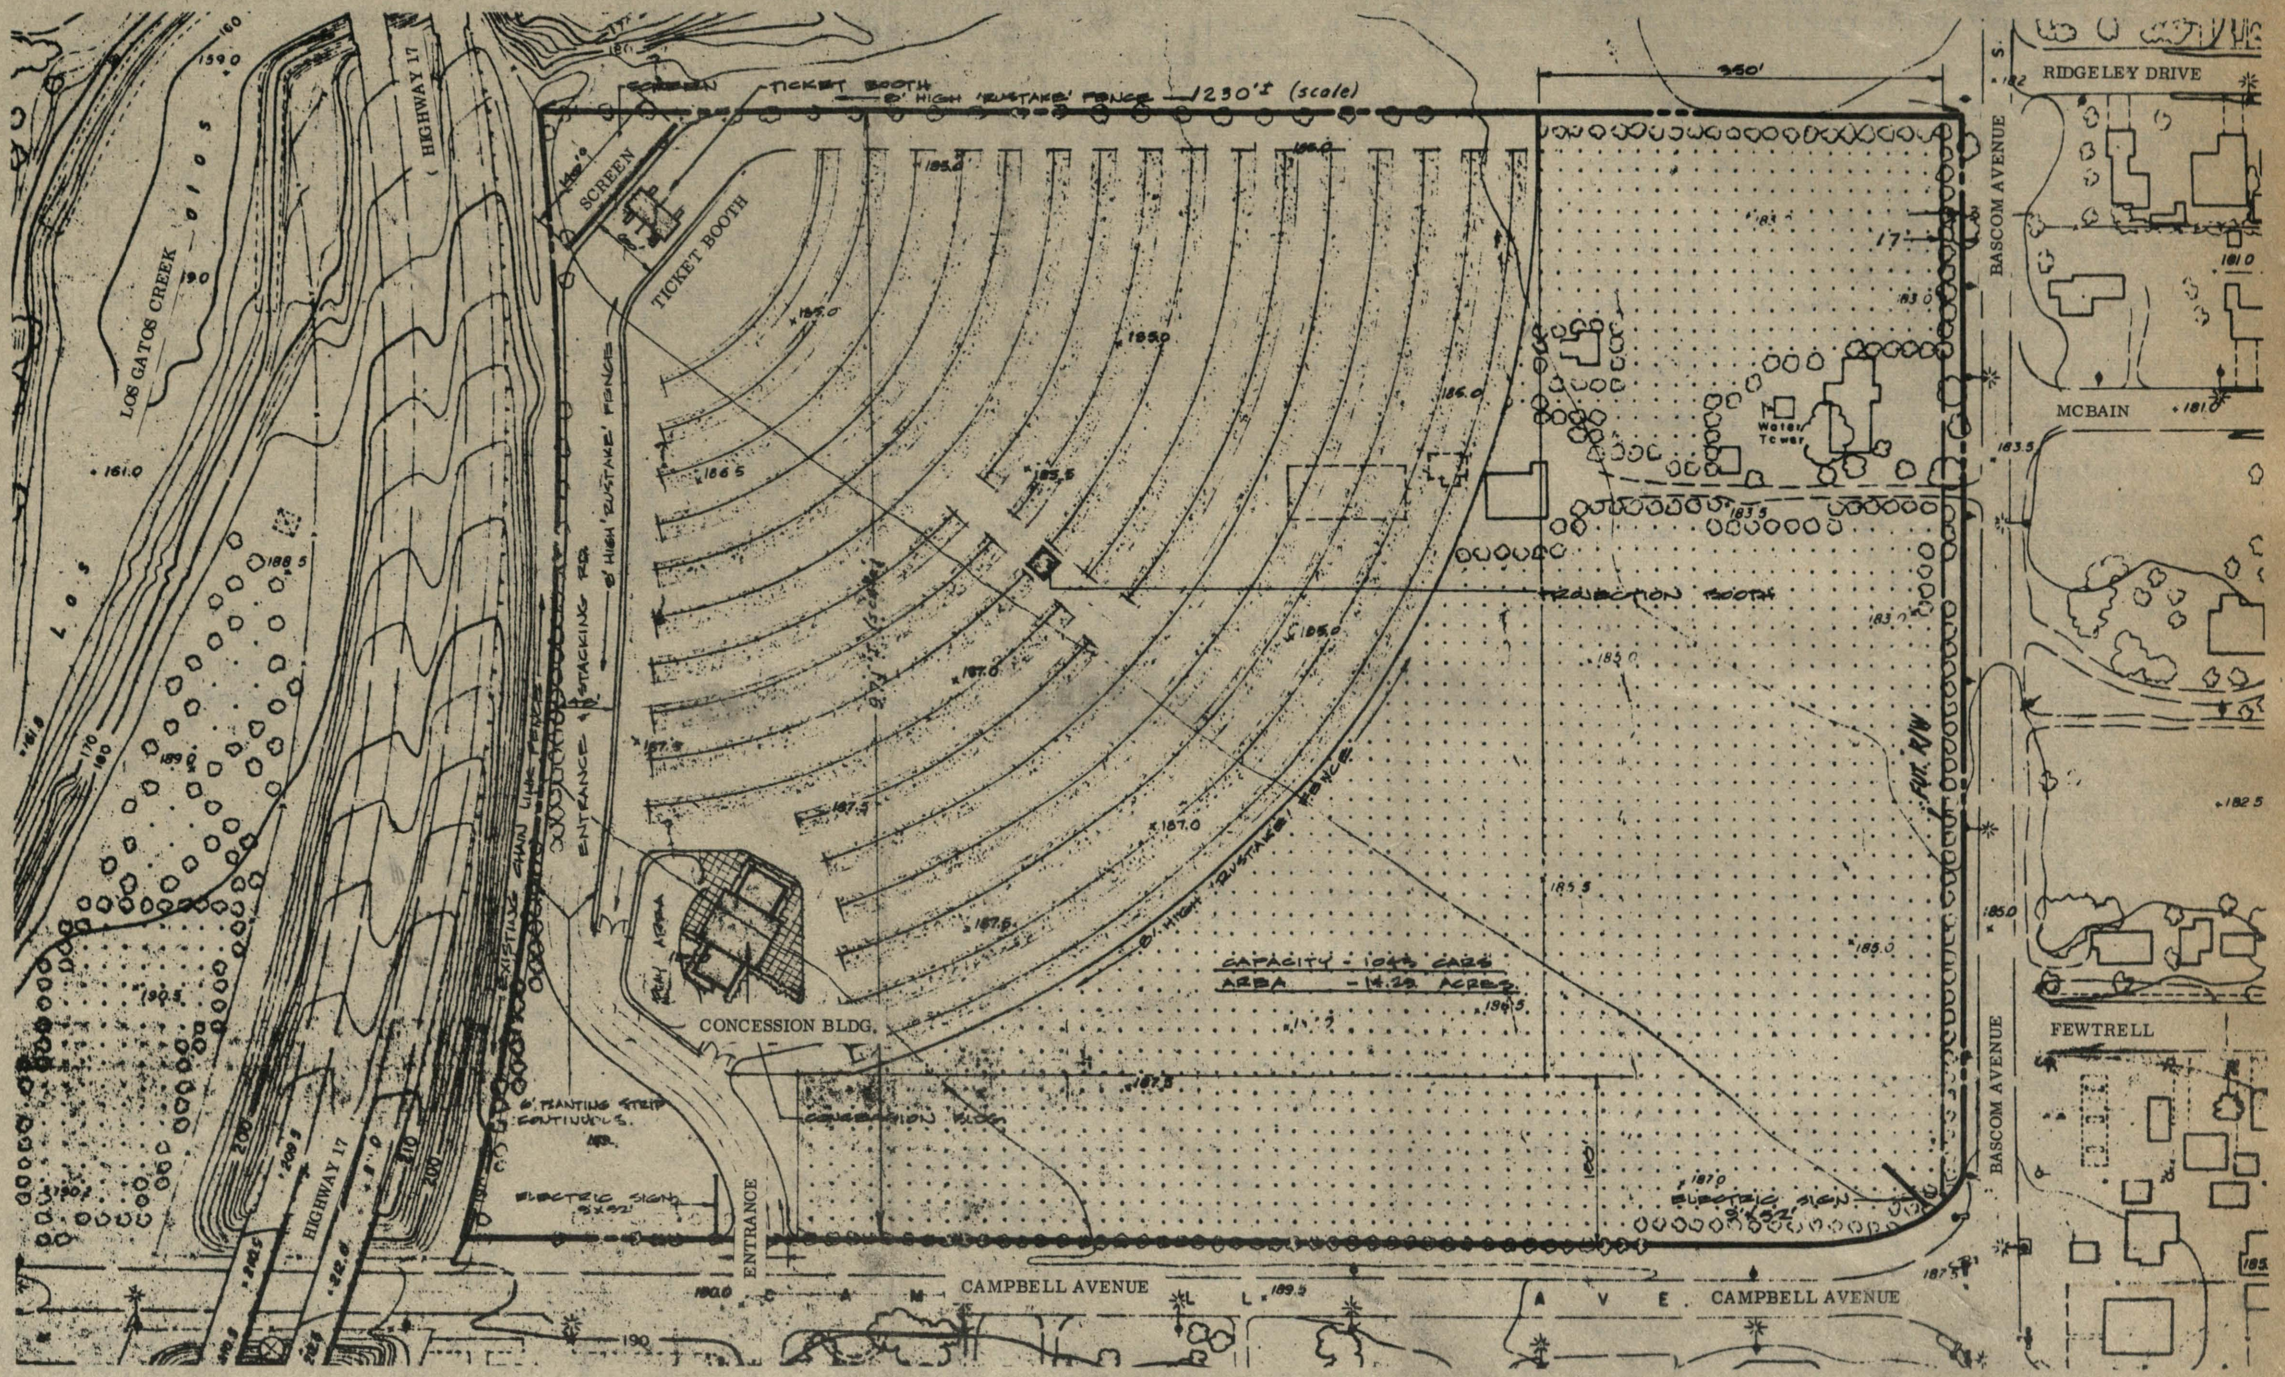
Drive-in theater asks permit at Campbell-Bascom site



Planning Commission holds hearing Monday

A drive-in motion picture theater will replace the orchard of the Brynteson Ranch at Campbell Ave. and Bascom, if the Planning Commission approves the necessary use permit and the plans for such an enterprise.

The Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the use permit next Monday, August 16 at 8 p.m. in the city hall. If the use permit is granted, the next step will be the approval of the plans for the theater which will use 14 acres of the 28-acre parcel.

Eric Hallbeck, of the Bank of America, acting for the Brynteson estate, has submitted the application for the use permit.

The application specifies that the United California Theater will develop the area, if the use permit is granted.

According to the report of Ruth, Going and Beck, San Jose engineering firm, plans call for entrance and exit off Campbell Ave. almost opposite Union Ave. with the 85-foot screen in the far corner of the property nearest the freeway.

It is planned, according to the application, to develop the balance of the property facing on both Campbell and Bascom commercially. The entire ranch is now zoned commercial (-2-S) and a drive-in theater can be located in that type of zoning, provided a use permit is granted. No use permit is necessary for other commercial development contemplated.

Present plans do not contemplate the immediate removal of the trees.

United California Theatre is a major motion picture theater operation and is now operating the Moonlite Theatre in Santa Clara and Fairoaks Drive-in in Sunnyvale. The Campbell drive-in would be similar to the Moonlite.

According to the plans, the parking area will accomodate 1043 cars. A concession building will be located near the entrance-exit off Campbell Ave. and the ticket booth will be near the screen.

Some months ago the city denied Syufy Enterprises, owners of the Winchester Drive-in at Winchester and Sunnyoaks, a zone-change request. The theater firm, which has been operating at that location, for three years will be displaced when the San Tomas Expressway cuts through the property next year. The location picked by the Winchester Drive-in people was on Dell Ave. which was zoned C-M. The necessary zone-change was denied by the city.

Reports indicate that since that time, the firm is planning a drive-in operation off Bascom just north of Hamilton but within the city limits of San Jose, but comparatively a short distance from the proposed drive-in at Campbell and Bascom.

School crossing concerns council

That perennial question of city-school district cooperating in the financing of adequate traffic controls for street crossing at schools cropped up again Monday night at the City Council meeting over plans for Rosemary School.

Because of the increased traffic on Hamilton Ave., on which Rosemary School is located, Bill Wren, acting city engineer, reported that the school district felt that a pedestrian overpass was warranted at that location.

The question that bothered the councilmen was who was going to pay for such elaborate traffic controls.

City fills two key jobs

Two new employees who fill key positions in the city have begun their duties at the city hall.

On Monday of this week, Geoffrey H. Whitaker, 33, began his duties in the upgraded position of accounting-budget officer. A short time previously Kenneth W. Hickman, 47, became street superintendent.

Whitaker, whose wife is a teacher in the local school system, resides at 1350 Abbott Ave., Campbell. He is a native of England and was employed in the London office Peat. Marwick and Mitchell, an international CPA firm before coming to the San Jose area where he was employed by the same firm.

He was employed in the county controller's office prior to his acceptance of the city job.

Hickman, the new street superintendent, us a native of the state of Washington, has been foreman of the street division in Mountain View since 1963.

NOT MUCH LEFT-- This converted barn being used as a garage by the Campbell-Los Gatos Septic Tank Service at 540 E. Hamilton went up in flames last Tuesday. Only a shell (above) remained after the fire was brought under control. In addition to the building, four older-model cars were partially destroyed. The fire started, according to the Campbell Fire Department report, while Ronald Cissney was washing automobile parts in gasoline while smoking a cigarette. Two firemen, Gerald Eller and Wayne Lewis, were slightly burned from the intense heat of the flames.

Gas station battle flares again Monday

Campbell's proposed new ordinance which would control the location of service stations faces another acid test next Monday at the Planning Commission meeting when the commissioners take up where they left off at their last meeting.

A packed house is expected in the council chambers when the commission meets at 8 p.m. A full agenda faces the planners, including a hearing on a drive-in theater proposed at Campbell Ave.-Bascom (note map and separate story).

At the first hearing on the proposed new con-

PARKING CARS either at home, at work, at school or while shopping has developed into a major headache in this mobile age.

It's an ailment that was hardly noticeable until more or less recent times, relatively speaking, when the country got wheels under it in a big way.

Now no school, business or house can be planned without adequate parking facilities included.

Some of you may recall that last week in this column we reported that we recently had undergone a brand new (for us anyway) experience.

We walked to work.

This ambling excursion, even as short as it was, revealed some unusual points pertaining to cars that we had failed to notice when sailing by in an auto.

We learned that cars whizz by walkers, leaving a gusty afterblow after they have passed. One blow almost threw this inexperienced pedestrian off-balance at times.

We also learned that even parked cars are a menace to the walker on streets without sidewalks.

And there are a lot of that ilk around.

In our unprecedented jaunt we also noted a number of flagrant traffic violations by both moving and parked vehicles.

Parking on the wrong side of the street was a common occurrence.

Our report on that last week, by the way, forced us to do a little research.

ONE OF OUR READERS informed us that he was pretty sure we were wrong about any traffic law being violated when a car is parked on the wrong side of the street. It happens all the time in his block, he said, with the cars remaining overnight thataway.

And, as far as he knew, no one has ever been cited.

Fortunately, for us, the state vehicle code substantiated our statement.

But, we hastily add, that we are aware that it is pretty difficult for police to patrol every residential street and issue minor traffic citations for parked vehicles.

If they did that, it would be hard for them to find time to do much else.

CONTROLLING the location of service stations and drive-in establishments is complex and confusing, members of the Planning Commission have discovered.

After months of study, the city staff, under the direction of Dick Hogan, planning director, has submitted proposed changes in the city ordinance defining and regulating service stations and other outdoor activities.

The first hearing on

Editorial

Drive-in theater ? ? ?

The proposal that a drive-in theater be located on the Brynteson Ranch at Campbell and Bascom avenues will be greeted with mixed feelings on the part of the residents of Campbell.

Applicants for such a theater are seeking a use permit, a necessary step under the city ordinance. The application is scheduled to come to bat before the Planning Commission on Monday, August 16. The proposed location for the theater does not require a zone change.

Plans for the outdoor movie establishment will also be submitted to the Planning Commission for approval, if the use permit is granted.

The Press is publishing a map of the proposed location in this issue which indicates the layout of the theater. The 85-foot screen will be located in the far corner nearest the freeway and creek of the 14-acre parcel that will be used for the theater operation.

The entrance and exit will be on Campbell Ave.

Whether the location is suitable for such a venture is probably a matter of opinion.

We recognize that a drive-in theater is a legitimate operation. We realize that such businesses apparently are flourishing enterprises. But it is difficult for us to generate any enthusiasm for such undertakings.

The difficult part for us is to decide in our own mind whether we are prejudiced against drive-in theaters per se simply because we have had little to do with them in the past and seldom have patronized them.

Or does our prejudice against them arise because we feel they are unattractive in appearance, noisy and do not help the overall tax base of a city to a great extent? Apparently experience indicates that the additional services that a city must render more than offsets any revenue a city could derive from such an enterprise.

We think it has been obvious that sooner or later some development would go on the Brynteson Ranch. The trees that have produced fruit for all these years will have to go eventually.

We realize, of course, that the price tag on the property was such that it would have been impossible to develop the area for single-family residences.

Perhaps high-rise apartments could be placed on the acreage. But the question arises as to whether the saturation point for multiples has already been reached in the city.

Whether it would be practical to develop the 28 acres into a full-fledged shopping center, in face of the many other shopping centers still undeveloped to their maximum plus others that are still on the drawing board, is a question we are not in a position to answer either.

What we are trying to say is that from a personal point of view we do not favor a drive-in theater at that prime location.

But we recognize that purely personal reasons based on prejudice alone should not be the sole basis for opposition.

There are many things we dislike vehemently. For example, we can forego the eating of vegetables any time. Yet we know that many people like them in any style. So we go along with it.

Maybe vegetables and drive-ins are not the proper comparisons to make. We are only emphasizing, however, that there are many people who apparently enjoy outdoor shows as well as vegetables. We don't.

We understand also that another drive-in theater is planned within the city limits of San Jose, just north of Hamilton. The operators of that firm are expected also to oppose the theater for Campbell, probably on the basis of economics.

Such opposition is common. But city officials in the past in similar cases have emphasized that it is not their perogative to judge solely on the basis of economics.

The question of whether a drive-in theater should be located at Campbell and Bascom avenues then must be decided on its own merits.

And that's a tough one.

Planners change East to west

A compromise, apparently satisfactory to both the applicant for a zone variance as well as an adjacent property owner objecting, was worked out at the last meeting of the Planning Commission.

The First Christian Church, which is planning to build a new church on Pollard Road had requested a side-yard variance on the west side of the property. After plans had been drawn, it was discovered [illegible] a "sliver" has [illegible] shaved off of the church site, necessitating the variance or a complete change of plans.

H. J. Perrotta, a property owner at 1589 Pollard, had objected to this encroachment toward his house on the west.

After studying the plans, the commissioners suggested that the variance could be given on the east side next to the driveway. Their suggestion was approved by church representatives and also satisfied Perrotta. The commission then okayed the variance... for the east side.

the changes was held last week. On Monday, August 16, a repeat performance is scheduled.

MANY COMPLICATIONS were uncovered at the first hearing when the proposals were blasted by various members of the audience as being "too rigid".

What concerned the opponents to the proposals mainly was the specification that service stations can be located only at intersections of two public streets of four moving lanes or more or in shopping centers.

Shopping centers, incidentally, are defined in the proposals also: "A group or cluster of retail shops and/or offices which share common areas of off-street parking"... on a minimum of three acres. And shopping centers must be abutted on at least two sides by streets.

Those speaking against the original proposals indicated their sympathy with the city to control the locations of service stations. But many felt that confining them to intersections of two or more public streets of FOUR MOVING LANES or more really was cutting it pretty fine.

In reporting the meeting, we failed to emphasize that a service station could only be located on two streets of four moving lanes. This oversight was called to our attention by Mrs. Eva Archibald, owner of service station property that would not comply with this provision.

Mrs. Archibald explained that there would be many service stations in town that would be non-conforming under the new proposals. A non-conforming use would allow a station to operate but prevents remodeling, no matter how badly it needed it.

She had a good point. This four-moving lane bit as it affects present stations is a vital point to be considered.

LOWELL GRATTAN, a local developer, presented some pictures of areas in another community which vividly showed what could happen if an old beat-up station was not allowed to remodel. They were pretty shoddy.

City Attorney Joseph Bonacina was quick to explain that what constituted a non-conforming use was too involved to answer on the spur of the moment.

We sort of guess that those stations that are not now located on two streets of four-moving lanes will be protected, even if the change as originally submitted is finally adopted.

We also hazard a guess that before the final adoption by the Planning Commission and then the City Council that other modifications will have been made.

That's the basic reason hearings are held before legislation is adopted, to gain an idea of what effect the new law will have and whether it is fair to all concerned.

It has been our contention that in the majority of cases, city officials make a determined effort to "do right by our Nell;" "Nell" in this case being the entire city.

But sometimes the going gets pretty rough.

trols for service stations and drive-in restaurants, opponents to the proposals criticized the "rigidity" of the amendments.

The proposed control that received the most criticism from interested parties, headed by a representative of the oil and gas industry, specifies that service stations can be located only in shopping centers at intersections of two public streets that have four or more moving lanes.

Another question that bothers the opponents of the new controls concerns the status of service stations now operating in town but would be non-conforming, if the new ordinance was adopted.

question will also be hashed over at the hearing before the final recommendation is made to the council by the commission.

Before the controls go into effect, the council must also hold a hearing and pass them.

tab for all adult crossing guards at the schools and any other traffic safeguards that would be installed.

Wren, in his report to the council, indicated that the city was in no position financially to construct a pedestrian overpass. He suggested, however, that it was possible to install a push-button actuated traffic signal to supplement the crossing guard.

He estimated that such an installation would cost about $4500 and recommended that such an appropriation be made by the city.

But the councilmen weren't in the mood for appropriating the money Monday.

They wanted more time to study the matter and directed Wren to contact the school district to see if the district would share the cost of installation.

Wren reported that it was difficult at this time to predict the volume of traffic that Hamilton would carry on that section. He explained that the traffic pattern could change after the completion of San Tomas and Lawrence expressways.

A reasonable estimate, he pointed out would be that Hamilton Ave. would carry 20,000 vehicles plus per day at the outset.

City Manager Bob Stephens told the council that based on past experiences school districts have not shown any inclination to share the costs of traffic controls. He added that new legislation that was presented recently by the school lobbies would have forced cities to provide traffic controls if requested by the school district.

But the councilmen indicated that they still felt that such controls were the responsibility of both the school district and the city and that it was unfair for the city to bear the entire cost.

And they wanted to know how the Campbell school district officials felt about it.

Wren said he would find out and report to the council as soon as possible, preferably before school started.

Fire Marshal has a fire

Gene Borden, Campbell's Fire Marshal, was called home from vacation suddenly last Saturday when his house at 1881 Ensenada Drive caught fire.

The couple's 17 year old daughter, Gina, was frying French fried potatoes in a deep pan of grease, and forgot them. The grease caught fire and burned a portion of the kitchen cabinets and caused extensive smoke damage throughout the house. Damage was estimated at $1500.

Commissioners must live in city

In the future members of the Planning Commission must reside within the city limits and members whose terms are expiring must notify the City Council that they desire reappointment.

That was the new policy that went into effect Monday night by council action.

In the past there have been no within-city residential requirements for planning commission members, although such a provision was written into the ordinance that established the Parks and Recreation Commission.

The matter came to a head at Monday's council meeting when it was reported that the term of Hal Lee as commissioner expired on August 1. Because Lee had not notified the council that he desired reappointment, no appointment was made Monday. Lee meets the residential requirement but the councilmen felt that they should know if he wanted the job before offering him the reappointment.

Until Lee is reappointed or, until his successor is named, the seven-member commission will be one short.

The city residential requirement will only affect future appointments, the council ruled. Recently Commissioner Jack Healey moved outside the city. The council specified that Healey's status was not affected by the new policy.

Council continues action on center

Almost the entire audience packed into the council chambers Monday night left when the City Council at the request of the attorneys representing both sides requested that the action on the controversial shopping center issue at San Tomas and Hacienda be deferred until August 23.

The request for continuance was made because Mayor Charles Rose was still on vacation and it was felt that a full council was desirable.

The issue revolves around the plans approved by the Planning Commission for a large shopping center development at San Tomas and Hacienda. Chief opposition to the center stems from the Turturici family, owners of the Big Boy Market on Hacienda, near Winchester who have long claimed that they plan to develop an elaborate shopping center at that location.

During the many times the issue has been at bat in the past before the commission and the council, many residents in the area have vociferously advocated the need for the new shopping center. They appeared again in force Monday night along with members of the Turturici family, their counsel and development agent.

Topaz also came prepared with counsel and material backing the center. Topaz previously had submitted a comprehensive market analysis of the area affected.

In other actions, on Monday night, the council:

--APPROVED two community projects submitted by the Jaycee members, Jerry Duncan and Phil Auger. The Jaycees plan to construct planter boxes at the two walnut trees at Campbell and Harrison and want to paint "watch your step" signs on cross-walks. The council specified that the Jaycees must work with the city staff on the projects.

--AGREED to allow the Santa Clara Valley Water Conservation District to sell fill from proposed percolation ponds to the county for expressway construction. The city had first call for the fill.

--APPROVED the tentative 21-lot subdivision for the Werthmann development north of Central Park Drive, west of Union and south of McGlincey.

--APPROVED the appointment of Thomas O'Day as acting city attorney in the absence of Joe Bonacina.

Light 4 cities San Francisco's size? A single PG&E plant will soon be powerful enough to do it!

Two new generating units, each more than twice as large as any now on the PG&E system, will soon bring the total generating capacity of Moss Landing Power Plant to over 2 million kilowatts.

That's slightly more than the capacity of all 71 plants in the company's system in 1948.

Though the amount of PG&E energy used in California is constantly going up, the unit cost has gone down. Today, a typical residential customer pays less than 30 years ago for the same amount of gas and electricity. Which makes PG&E service a bigger bargain than ever.

Campbell elementary adopts $6.4 million budget

A budget of $6,491,784 was adopted by the trustees of the Campbell Union (elementary) School District last week, an increase of $497,940 over last year.

Despite the 8.31% increase, the trustees decided to keep the same tax rate of $2.23 per $100 assessed valuation.

Instruction costs will total $4,211,199 in 1965-66, while for the previous school year they were $3,855,366. The 9.23% increase is $355,833. Classroom teachers' salaries for 1965-66 will be $3,276,262 - an increase of $303,058 or 10.19% over the 1964-65 figure of $2,973,204.

The increase in instruction costs is primarily for additional teachers and salary increases. No other jobs have been added. The teacher salary range increased an average 2.77%, from $5,400 - $10,800 in 1964-65, to $5,550 - $11,100 for 1965-66. Classified salaries have been increased an average 2.85%, from $350 - $742 monthly to $360 - $763 monthly.

Administrative costs will decrease $2,891 (1.54%): from $187,723 in 1964-65 to $184,832 in 1965-66. The food service program will continue to be self-supporting.

The average daily attendance (A.D.A.) is expected to increase 477, from 10.623 in 1964-65 to 11,100 in 1965-66 - a 4.49% increase.

Enrollment was 10,806 in 1964-65. Estimated enrollment at the beginning of school this September will be 11,300 - an increase of 494 or 4.57%.

The assessed valuation increased 6.46% - $7,654,120 - between the two years. The 1964-65 figure was $118,519,520. Assessed valuation for 1965-66 will be $126,173,640.

The classroom instruction expenditure amounts to 61.54% of the total budget.

The board agreed to set a public hearing at its next meeting, September 2 at 8 p.m., for consideration of granting an easement across the westerly portion of Lynhaven School to Sanitation District #4. The purpose would be to permit establishment of an underground sanitation line.

Larry King heads commerce division of United Fund

Larry R. King, pro-assistant cashier with Bank of America, has been named head of the Campbell commerce and industry division drive for the 1965 United Fund campaign.

His appointment is announced by Ledger A. Myers, Campbell campaign chairman and administrative assistent in IBM's supplies division.

King is in the process of appointing ten volunteers to aid him in contacting the 48 firms in the C and I division, which includes industrial concerns with ten or more employees.

Since UF's costs for tration and the annual campaign come to only 8% of what is donated, the lowest cost for a community-wide campaign on the west coast, 92 cents of every dollar collected will go to support the United Fund agencies.

This year there are 66 health, welfare, and citizenship training agencies depending on the United Fund contributions to support their work in a rapidly growing community.

Last year, with Arthur R. Mayo heading Campbell's C and I division, the chapter raised 103% of their community goal.

King, a former missionary for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, lives at 883-B Jean Dr. with his wife Diane and their two children, Kristine, 2 1/2, and Stephanie, 4 weeks.

MRS. JAMES (DOROTHY) GOBLE has been named Director of Project PREP under the Economic Opportunity Commission of Santa Clara County, Inc. Mrs. Goble is now serving on the Board of Trustees for the Campbell Union High School District.

Adult program adds counseling

Persons entering the high school or elementary school completion program are being scheduled for placement tests and counseling beginning August 17th and continuing through September, according to E. P. Stanley, principal, Campbell Adult School.

Counselors are available for this program daily beginning August 17 at 1945 Winchester Blvd., Campbell. Younger persons who have not completed high school or persons who wish to review English, composition and mathematics before entering Junior College are also invited.

Job training programs at Campbell Adult School are available in several fields with counselors also available by appointment.

West Valley College trustees adopt $5.6 million budget

A final 1965-66 fiscal year budget of $5,647,363 was approved last week by the West Valley College Board of Trustees.

The new budget, the trustees estimated, would present junior college tax rate of 54.2 cents.

The increase, Jack Armstrong, trustee, observed, is a direct result of the failure of a $17.8 million bond proposal last April 20.

At the public hearing, which lasted about 25 minutes, G. S. (Stan) Marshall, who was a candidate for trustee, asked if the expected tax increase were not due largely to the pay-as-you-go site acquisition policy.

James P. Hardy, dean of business services, said that "very likely most of it, all but about two or two and a half cents, was due to the pay-as-you-go policy and the defeat of the bonds."

The budget reflects an approximate two-million dollar increase over the 1964-65 budget of $3,623,550. The last year's budget, adopted on August 6, 1964, was trimmed from $4,233,000 at the last minute, largely at the urging of the Santa Clara County Taxpayer's Association, according to Dr. Wallace W. Hall, president of West Valley College. The group had urged that a $579,000 item for site acquisition be deleted, and that the district "look to bonds" for site funds. The trustees agreed.

Nearly $600,000 of the increase in the new budget is accounted for increased costs of instruction, due to a sharply increasing student body, Dr. Hall said. The remainder of the increase is due largely to a need to create a special fund for sites and buildings on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The budget finally adopted is $570,000 higher than the "publication budget" published for public hearing purposes last month. This amount, according to Dr. Hall, is a net figure after several final adjustments and the need to insert an item of $671,000, a decision on the use of which is now in litigation.

On June 17 the trustees sought to transfer $1.3 million from its general fund to a special reserve fund for site acquisition and other necessary capital outlay purposes. C. R. Timpany, county superintendent of schools, indicated that he could not make the transfer since, in his opinion, some $671,000 of the amount was restricted for payment of 1964-65 tuition obligations to other junior colleges. Subsequently Dr. Timpany agreed that transfer of the remainder of the general funds in question to the special reserve fund was proper.

Nine from here gain top grades at West Valley

Nine Campbell students were among the 82 students who achieved the Dean's List for the spring quarter, of the West Valley College, according to Jerry H. Girdner, dean of student personnel services.

The list is a select group of students who are taking 12 or more units of classwork and who achieved outstanding averages in that work, Dean Girdner reported.

Students from Campbell who made the Dean's List include, Jared D. Church, 62 Kimberly Dr. #2; Joanne K. Di Falco, 1685 Westmont Ave.; Jeffrey A. Hecker, 954 Robin Lane; Lee H. Johnson, 1875 White Oaks; Darlyne S. Mindel, 1120 Virginia; Carlos L. Najera, 2261 Highland Park Lane; Marian C. Nicholls, 176 No. Carlyn Ave.; Mike Spitzer, 864 Almarida; Betty D. Washburn, 145 So. Virginia.

College offers evening courses in Santa Clara

A total of 13 evening credit courses will be offered by West Valley College next fall at Buchser High School in Santa Clara, Nero Pruitt, dean of extended day has announced.

The new offerings--first to be scheduled outside the Campbell area--were made possible through cooperation of the Santa Clara Union High School district and Buchser High School, Pruitt said.

The classes are an integral part of the college's total program of graded classes, and as such are open to enrollment on the same basis as other classes, Pruitt said.

Students who desire to pre-register for the Buchser classes may do so at West Valley College on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday evenings from Aug. 16 through Sept. 7.

The classes to be offered, time, days they will meet, and units of credit are as follows:

Accounting 1a, 7-9:30, Monday and Wednesday, 4 units; Introduction to Business 51, 7-10 p.m., Monday, 3; Introduction to Philosophy 1a, 7-10 p.m., Monday, 3; English Composition 1a, 7-10 p.m., Monday, 3; English Fundamentals 50, 7-10 p.m., Monday, 3; English Essentials 51a, 7-10 p.m., Monday, 3; Public Speaking 1a, 7-10 p.m., Wednesday 3; Plane Trigonometry D, 7-10 p.m., Monday, 3; College Algebra 1, 7-10 p.m., Wednesday, 3; Principles of Economics 1a, 7-10 p.m., Monday, 3; History of the U. Proposed closing of White Oaks ires residents

Residents in the White Oaks portion of the Campbell area last week protested vehemently a proposal by the state that would close White Oaks when Highway 17 was widened.

The protests were made at the hearing conducted by the State Division of Highways in the supervisors' office.

Although most of the residents present at the hearing are in county territory outside the Campbell city limits, they found a staunch ally in City Manager Bob Stephens who was also present at the hearing.

Stephens suggested that White Oaks should be connected to the freeway off-ramp at Camden rather than making the street a cul de sac. One state official wondered, however, if it would be possible to connect White Oaks with Camden at a point further east.

Campbell officials, as well as the residents, all agreed that widening Highway 17 to eight lanes as proposed by the state was necessary. The eight-lane project is planned from Camden in Campbell to Junipero Serra freeway in San Jose by 1990. But state officials indicated that they thought the widening would come in less than 10 years.

The first step would be the immediate addition of another long-needed lane between Hamilton and Junipero Serra. It is possible for this project to be under way in 1966, state officials thought.

Another step would be the construction of a pedestrian crossing over Highway 17 at Downing Ave.

Drivers to have two types of photos

California drivers' licenses will soon appear with two kinds of photographs.

Minors under 21 years old will be issued licenses with profile, or side-view photographs. Adult drivers will still receive the customary license with a front-view photo.

The new license photos will permit quick identification of minors by a look at the driver's license, and will effectively prevent alteration of age on a license.

First "profile" photos will be taken after September 17, the effective date of the 1965 law directing DMV to issue such licenses to minors.

Director Tom Bright pointed out that it will be several years before all minors hold the side-view licenses, because those now held by minors will be good until their normal expiration dates.

"A profile photograph on a license will be a sure indication that the person is under 21 years of age."

Other 1965 legislation was passed to require driver license applicants, beginning September 17, to furnish proof of their age. Such evidence should be a birth certificate, baptismal document or transcript of other official records acceptable to DMV.

Campbell AFS student writes from Germany

Editor's Note: The Campbell Press is happy to publish a letter from Dianne Rawlinson, an American Field Service student from Campbell High School now living in Beuel, Germany. Dianne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rawlinson, 2289 Montezuma Drive.

DIANNE RAWLINSON

August 2, 1965
Beuel/Rhein

Dear Campbell Press:

A short time before I left for Germany, the Campbell Press suggested that I could write about my experiences abroad. English and grammar are not my best subjects and I do not know what would be of interest to such a large spectrum of subscribers to your newspaper, however, perhaps this diary will be of interest.

June 25, 1965 - My parents, grandmother and four sisters left for the San Francisco Airport at 6:30 a.m. As we sat in the lounge waiting to board the plane, I kept discovering more and more of the orange American Field Service tags on luggage and before long about 15 fellow AFS students were assembled. We arrived in New York at 6 p.m., then we took a bus to the terminal and a taxi to the Shelburne Hotel where all 750 of us AFSer's stayed. I had my last American meal, a hamburger and a coke, and went to my room that I shared with seven other girls from across the US.

June 26, 1965 - At 8 a.m. we carried our luggage outside the hotel and awaited our turn to take the bus to the pier and the ship, Seven Seas, our new home for the next 10 days. On the dock the President of American Field Service spoke to us, "Walk together, talk together, all ye people of the earth; then and only then shall ye have peace." (AFS motto) and then he reminded us of our purpose for being here at all, "I am an American, you are an American, you cannot let your country down. God bless you and good luck. Everywhere you go you'll wear the American flag on your back."

June 27, 1965 - On the ship all had a regular schedule with an hour of our language, our host country orientation, and a two hour discussion on American policies and problems (Negro, foreign aid, medicare) - Just being on this ship is a fabulous experience... this once in a lifetime experience to meet students from every corner of this land. I realize these are the voters of tomorrow - my generation.

July 5, 1965 - Met my family at 11:55 p.m. I was so happy that all I could do was hug Mutti, Dorle (16) and Gerold (24) and cry for happiness. July 6, 1965 - Went shopping with Mutti for vegetables in an open shop and for milk, however we brought about a 3 qt. container and then the customer may purchase the desired amount of milk.

July 8, 1965 - Went to school today with my sister. It is a parochial school of the Sacred Heart Order. I have math, physics, religion, P.E., biology, English, German, French, geography, sewing, psychology, cooking, chemistry and history.

July 15, 1965 - Today I went with my family to my sister's dance-class ball. It is much the same as our Junior Prom, but not as formal in the respect that everyone had partners, and not dates. All beverages were offered and the young people drank freely in the presence of their parents. Perhaps we could learn from the Europeans a more wholesome attitude toward drinking.

July 20, 1965 - Today is Wiederstandtag, the day when the attempted assasination of Hitler took place and as a result 200 men were killed. This is a day of remembrance over the past of Germany and a re-examination of the present.

July 21, 1965 - I can't help but appreciate the European TV. The commercials are every hour or more but played all at once, but no longer than 5 minutes. I have seen Yogi Bear, and many of our commercials in German.

July 28, 1965 - My family here is political minded, therefore we listen to the news and documentaries everyday. I can't help but admire how closely the Germans follow American political actions, especially Viet Nam and former President Kennedy is beloved here and the youth greatly admired him.

August 3, 1965 - After four weeks I think I have mastered the German table manners of eating with the fork in the left hand and the knife always in the right. It is much more practical and faster as is the rule of keeping the wrists on the table at all times.

August 4, 1965 - We went to a church sponsored "Mother of God Procession" and traveled on a river ship from 7 a.m. til 9 p.m. sixty miles south of Bonn. The day was beautiful and we passed the Russian, American and French Embassies and everywhere the reminders of Germany's past. I counted 10 old castles, 8 fortresses and everywhere the picturesque dorfs.

The opportunity that AFS has made possible for me, to see first hand the people of another land can only be described as wonderful. I have come to love even more that nebulous thing called the American Tradition and the American Way of Life, and I can proudly say I am an American, but I have also found out that I am a member not only of America but a member of mankind and have a responsibility to others also.

Mormons stage annual roadshow

San Jose West Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints recently presented an annual eight-ward roadshow. Each ward writes their own 15-minute play originated from a universal theme. This year's theme was "There Ought To Be A Law."

The participants traveled between three West Valley area chapels putting their plays on three times in one evening. They performed in front of audiences of about 500 at each chapel.

The M-men and Gleaners, college-age members from each ward, won first place recognition this year for "Iphen of Nomrom." Barbara Wilson (pictured) was an advisor to the king in this production.

San Jose Fourth and Ninth Wards (see picture) were recognized for their outstanding actions in "Of Birds and Beats".

IN NAVY

Seaman Recruit James C. Smith, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarance C. Smith of 189 Wilton Drive, Campbell, recently reported to the Recruit Training Command, U. S. Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif., for nine weeks of basic training.

Saratoga Drama Festival offers Steinbeck play

The Saratoga Drama Festival will close its three production season with the brilliant human interest Steinbeck drama, "Burning Bright."

The drama will be staged at the new Saratoga Theater, 13777 Fruitvale Ave., Saratoga. Opening night is at 8 p.m., August 12 and will run through Sunday, August 15, and will be presented again the 19th through the 22nd of August. There will be an 8:30 curtain call on Sunday nights. Tickets are on sale at the theater or call the box office, 379-4101.

With a cast of only four characters, the Steinbeck story, concerns itself with the universal theme of man's attempt to find immortality through his ability to procreate. The play's actors are Stanley Anderson Jr., Marian Stave, Tracy Thornell and Russell Holcomb. The show is directed by Myla Lyon and Robert Ryan.

County beauty search is on

According to the publicity office at the County Fair, there must be a shortage of attractive young ladies in Santa Clara County.

In a search for queen candidates from different areas of the county, the Fair has been unable to come up with any girls willing to compete for the titles.

Young ladies between 17 and 25 years of age are wanted. They will be judged on talent, beauty, and personality.

Any girl interested in entering the race should call the publicity office at the Santa Clara County Fair Grounds at 295-3050.

MRS. BARBARA ANDREWS

Barbara Andrews named assistant

Mrs. Barbara Andrews, special consultant for West Valley College in the field of medical assisting, has been named administrative assistant for The Good Samaritan Hospital of Santa Clara Valley.

The new 225-bed hospital is now accepting applications for employment at 15825 Samaritan Drive, between South Bascom and Elester Drive.

Five from here join U.S Navy

Chief Ed Goodenough, of the local Navy recruiting station, San Jose, has reported the enlistment of five local men. They are: Anthony L. Martin, of 2200 Casey Road, William P. Foresee, of 785 W. Parr Ave., Bruce A. Carlson, of 2015 White Oaks berg, of 1120 Sunova Ave., and Verlon M. David, of P. O. Box 751.

They are now attending training which includes courses such as firefighting, first aid, atomic warfare, seamanship, Naval history and many other aspects of the Navy.

After recruit training they will be granted 14 days leave.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE
SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

Gladstone A. Boquist

Q. Every quarter I report the wages of my employees for social security. My accountant tells me my own earnings don't belong on that report. Aren't self-employed people also covered by social security?

A. Yes, indeed, they are. However, their social security credits are based on their net earnings from self-employment and these become known only after the end of the business year. For this reason, the law prescribes that self-employed people will report their earnings only once a year as part of their income tax returns. This is done on a separate Schedule C, or Schedule F if farm business is involved.

Q. All I read about applying for reduced social security benefits is to the effect that this will be a permanent reduction and the payments I receive fixed for the rest of my life. I still hope to work. Can I receive credit for those earnings?

A. While the benefit established by applying for social security payments before age 65 generally will remain the same after age 65, there are two conditions under which payments may be increased. First, if there are months before age 65 in which benefits are withheld because of earnings in excess of $1200 per year, the benefit will be increased automatically at age 65, by giving credit for those months. Second, the benefit may be further increased if the earnings after the original application are higher than those before the application was filed. This is not done automatically, and a new claim must be filed.

Q. I am disabled and have never worked under social security. My wife, who has supported me for over 10 years, will be eligible to receive social security next year when she is 62 years of age. I will then be 64. Can I receive benefits as her dependent under the law which permits payments to men under age 65?

A. Since you are dependent upon your wife, you may be eligible to receive benefits when your wife's application becomes effective. The benefit will be reduced, based on the number of months you are under 65 years of age.

A. I know that farmers can get social security credit, but recently a neighbor told me that coverage under social security was compulsory. I always thought it was optional. Who is right?

A. The farmers' "option" is a special method of determining the amount to be reported and is available to many low income farmers. It is not a way to avoid the social security tax. If the net earnings from your farm were $400 or more, you must report it. Your social security office has a free pamphlet which explains the farmer's reporting responsibilities in greater detail. Ask for leaflet 864.

WENT UP FAST--Pictured above is mute evidence that smoking and gasoline do not mix, if you hadn't known that fact before. The converted barn above at 540 E. Hamilton was totally destroyed last week, along with four older model cars. The Campbell Fire Department reports that the fire apparently started when a mechanic was washing automobile parts in gasoline while smoking.

CONTROLLED BURNING--Members of the Campbell Fire Department recently participated in a training session in which a house, previously condemned by the city, was burned to the ground by the department. The house was located at 121 Kennedy at Industrial and was owned by Annamae Pereira.

LEARNING BY DOING--Campbell Fire Department members through their controlled burning program in which condemned houses are burned to the ground have an opportunity for practical application of the fundamentals of fire fighting. Above is a house going up in flames at 121 Kennedy under watchful eyes of the firemen.

JUNIPERS ARE WONDERFUL

It would be possible to landscape a home completely with junipers, according to the California Association of Nurserymen. As a matter of fact, it is common practice in colder sections of the United States, and the wide choice of varieties makes them even more popular in California.

Supposing you set out to have a garden of junipers. Possibly your first consideration would be the upright, slender forms for accent-framing doorways, accenting corners, for tall screens and lawn specimens.

You would find a wide variety of foliage colors, including just plain green, silvery-green, blue green, and all silver. There are many in-between shades, that only a trip to your favorite C. A. N. nursery can reveal.

Then there are the half-bushy, half-upright junipers, often referred to as "vase" forma. These varieties are excellent for foundation planting hedges to divide gardens and mark property lines between frontages and sidewalks. There are some beautiful foliage textures and colors in this group as well.

But the greatest use of junipers comes in the ground cover class. Their toughness, ability to withstand unfavorable planting situations and overall good looks come to the forefront when junipers are used to eat up space. Let's take a closer look at some of the most popular varieties.

The Tamarisk Juniper is California's favorite. It's handsome blue-green, softly textured foliage is admired by all. It grows low, not so down-to-earth as to be lost, but just high enough to show off its best features. It is available everywhere, a standard item with all nurseries.

A very prominent group, vying with the "Tam" for first favor, is a group of junipers known as the Pfitzer varieties. These are more robust in growing habit. They grow taller than the "Tam" and spread more and faster. The foliage types include plain green, green with golden tips and blue. There are several selections of the golden form that are more ground-hugging. One selection of the green form is quite compact. Some varieties never seem to want to leave the ground.

Junipers may be grown in sun or shade, but look best in sun, particularly the golden tipped variety, which stays green in shade.

Letters to the Editor

COLLEGE BOARD ANSWERS CRITICS

Dear Editor:

For weeks the West Valley College Governing Board and administration have been targets of continuous abuse at board meetings and through letters-to-the-editor written by those who are obsessed with the desire to keep the first college campus out of Saratoga.

Realizing that in a democracy such kinds of attacks are "par for the course" in public life, the Board has patiently borne these annoyances.

However, the letter appearing in the Campbell Press under the signature of Dorothy Parker, secretary pro tem of the Good Government Group of Saratoga, Inc., contains so many misstatements of fact and so many serious allegations that the public interest demands it be challenged.

The governing board and the administration are certainly cognizant of the right of the Saratoga Good Government Group to oppose location of West Valley College's first campus in Saratoga. While recognizing this right, nevertheless, they believe that this group has an obligation to set forth factual information and not innuendoes.

The charges by the Board of Directors of the Group allege that actions by the governing board in seeking to acquire the Fruitvale Avenue Site "constitute":

"--Disregard of the will of the people, as expressed in the bond election last spring.

--Unbusiness-like management of public money."

The fallacy into which the members of the Good Government Group and other Saratoga opponents of the Fruitvale Site fall, is the belief that their own wishes--or even those of a majority of Saratoga voters in the April 20 bond election--are the same as the wishes of the voters in the entire junior college district. There were 110,080 registered voters in the district at the time of the election. Of that number 7,639--or less than 7 per cent--were registered as living within the Saratoga Elementary School District.

Of the 29,418 votes cast in the election, 15,659 or 53.2% were in favor of the bonds. Furthermore, the voters elected by decisive margins the members of the governing board who favored the bond issue over candidates who opposed it. Can it be truthfully said, then, that the Board, in pursuing the purchase of the Fruitvale site is disregarding, as the Good Government Group claims, "the will of the people, as expressed in the bond election last spring"?

The group charges that the Board has not made "any real attempt to activate its Citizens Advisory Committee." The Board has long had the services of an Advisory Committee consisting of representative business and professional men, as well as public officials throughout the district. It has already had frank discussions with the members of this group pertaining to the recent bond election.

Mrs. Parker's letter on behalf of the Good Government Group further states that "architectural planning for the Fruitvale Site has progressed from the general to the detailed stage. It is clear that the architects' instructions have not been altered by the Board since the election."

It is true that because of requirements of a federal loan for preliminary planning--a loan made necessary, incidentally, because of the failure of the first bond election--the Board had to adopt such preliminary plans and forward them to the federal agency involved.

However, if the Good Government Group directors had read carefully the record of the Board's action in this matter, they would have noted that the Board's approval indicated its belief that adequate, but not complete preliminary planning had been done. Each of the approving resolutions then notified the district architects that the approval of the project in question "did not constitute authorization to proceed with the final plans of the project" as provided for in the contract between the Board and the architects.

Under these instructions the architects are continuing to work on the preliminary plans and will not proceed with the detailed plans until there has been further review and final acceptance of the preliminary plans by the Board. We do know that even the architects themselves have made numerous changes in the preliminary plans originally submitted to the Board.

The Good Government Group states that the Board "has embarked upon a course of action of dubious legality in order quickly to assemble funds for continued site acquisition." Let it be noted that the efforts of the Good Government Group and others in defeating the bond issue last spring, because of the site, left the governing board no choice except to pursue a pay-as-you-go basis. Land must be acquired while it is still available at reasonable prices.

By paying for it on a pay-as-you-go basis there will be no interest payments on the land acquisition payments budgeted for 1965-66 (and this includes more than the Fruitvale Avenue site). Conservatively it could be $1,600,000. With a conservative interest rate of 3.25% this could amount to a saving to the taxpayers of $52,000 for the first year alone in interest charges. Is this "unbusiness-like management of public money" as the group claims?

Let's look for a moment at this charge of actions of "dubious legality." The district has contended that Education Code Section 25541.5 authorizes the governing board of a junior college district to levy a tax for the payment of its tuition to other junior college districts in the fiscal year in which the actual tuition bills are submitted. In this contention the district has the best legal advice available, short of a specific court decision which it is now seeking in the State Supreme Court. This advice comes from the Santa Clara County Counsel's office and the State Attorney General. In fact, the Santa Clara County Counsel could have chosen to represent County Superintendent C. R. Timpany instead of the district--as he is now doing--had he not been convinced of the soundness of the district's legal position.

The specific action now being considered by the State Supreme Court is to mandate Dr. Timpany to transfer back into the district's general fund $671,000 which he had transferred into the tuition fund with which to pay the 1964-65 tuition bills. It was his contention that the money to pay the bills must be raised, on an estimate and not an actual basis, during the fiscal year in which the services are rendered. If the courts sustain the district's position, there will be an additional $671,000 to be added to the $900,000 which is already in the district's Special Reserve Fund. The County Superintendent agrees that the Board's setting up the special reserve fund and the transfer of $900,000 into it is entirely proper.

The Good Government Group charges that West Valley Junior College District is postponing payment of "its just obligations" to other junior college districts by six months until the first installment of 1965-66 district taxes is collected. This allegation carries the inference there is something unethical or sinister about this procedure. The fact is that the interdistrict contract with the Foothill Junior College District provides that obligations incurred in the 1964-65 school year are not due until January 15, 1966. As far as San Jose City College is concerned, by contractual arrangement, an advanced payment for 1964-65 services was made in February, 1965.

Finally, the Good Government Group would attempt in its letter to discredit the district by implying that it is highly irregular and unusual for the district to secure a temporary transfer of funds with which to meet its obligations until the apportionment of the first installment of district taxes in December. Throughout the State of California this is a very commonly accepted practive by school districts. In fact, during the school year 1964-65 there were 42 such temporary transfer of funds in Santa Clara County by the County Board of Supervisors. Education Code Section 21051 mandates this action by the County Board of Supervisors.

The creation and development of a community college "from scratch" to serve the educational needs of approximately 3200 full and part-time students (on the Campbell campus alone) last year, and an anticipated 4500 during the present school year, is not an easy task at best. It is not made any easier when organizations or individuals make assertions predicated on prejudice, not on facts.

ABOUT P. O.

Dear Sir:

I will appreciate publication of these thoughts as a reply to a letter to the editor in your July 21st edition:

The United States Post Office system is certainly a wonderful organization. Have you ever stopped to think how efficiently billions of pieces of mail are handled annually. When was the last time a letter intended for you, or mailed by you was lost? To me it is quite amazing how the postal system can operate so efficiently and at such a small deficet in proportion to its services and size.

The Post Office Department is constantly striving to serve the public more efficiently as well as conserving costs.

E. M. in a letter to the editor of this newspaper has said that a local shopping center has "lost" its post office to a "brand new fancy shopping center located a typical stones throw from another brand new post office." E. M. further asks if "Weren't there any business people or someone else (whoever that might mean) in our . . . center who could have maintained the post office?"

The United States Post Office, in striving to maintain service and economy for the taxpayers puts all contract postal stations to bid every three years. Any interested business may bid at this time. The awarding of the contract, I presume goes to the lowest bidder who also has an ease of access to the majority of postal patrons in the area under consideration.

I am sure the Post Office Department would have given serious consideration to any other bids coming from that center, but apparently the other businesses were disinterested enough not to even bother filing a bid.

The brand new shopping center referred to by E. M., is already over 4 years old, Mayfair market being established at least that long. The post office a "stones throw away", is merely a clearing station of some sort with no postal facilities available, other than letter mailing. The new location is situated on two main roads, not just one, making access easier for most.

If the postal patrons nearby the San Tomas Shopping Center honestly feel their area requires a post office and it imposes a definite hardship upon them to go to another post office, then by all means, I suggest they show proof of this need to the post office, find several bidders, and ask that a post office be established there.

However, I believe if they think deep enough, they realize the present location is nearly as convenient for them, indeed, many probably pass these corners daily anyway.

Considering that the new location is still close to this area, that the new location serves many additional postal patrons, and that it saves the taxpayers money, I feel that maybe E. M. is blowing his or her horn a little more loudly than the situation deserves.

Campbell-Moreland Pony team loses sectional

An injury-ridden pitching staff proved the undoing of the world champions Campbell-Moreland Pony League team in the sectional tournament held in Martinez last week.

Even with the badly-crippled mound crew, the locals went down to the wire on Sunday, forcing the final game of the tourney to go an extra inning.

In that final stanza, however, four errors proved costly and Campbell-Moreland lost the sectional title 7-4 to Richmond-San Pablo. Campbell-Moreland played a double-header on Saturday and another double bill on Sunday.

The local Ponies lost 8-3 to Sacramento on Friday but came back to win from the same team 7-2 on Saturday. In addition, the local aggregation toppled Diablo Valley 9-7.

In the double-header on Sunday, Campbell-Moreland first won from Richmond-San Pablo 6-3 forcing that team to play in the finals against the locals.

In the first game Sunday, Duane Kubu hurled a four-hitter. Grant Shimizu got the loss for a four-hitter. Grant Shimizu got the loss for the second battle.

Mike Ucci was hitting leader with five for five in Sunday's games. Chuck Hawthorne, who did yoeman service behind the plate, slammed a three-run homer. Ucci and Hawthorne also hit well in the preliminary games.

Greg Ojeda only allowed three hits when the locals defeated Sacramento on Saturday. Ojeda did a good job also at bat in the games. He played shortstop when not pitching.

CAMPBELL-MORELAND PONY TEAM--Here are the local all-stars who won the district championship held at Castro School field without losing a game. The team played in Martinez for the sectional crown, this week. Last year's Campbell-Moreland aggregation won the world championship without losing a game.

Black Knights get third win

Campbell's Black Knights, a semi-pro baseball team coached by Elton Knight picked up the third straight win on Sunday by defeating Monterey 1-0.

Ron Carathers twirled a three-hit ball and was backed up by an errorless defense by his teammates. Carathers also batted in the only run in the third inning scoring Ray Knight.

The Black Knights travel to Soledad next week for a double-header with the prison team.

In a previous encounter, the Black Knights defeated Galardi Bros. of Santa Clara 10-7. Guthrie and Porter did the pitching duties in that game with Guthrie getting the win.

Most citizens look upon democracy as a process which fairly considers opposing points of view in the making of national policy. But the manner in which the people's business is currently being conducted in the House of Representatives by the top-heavy majority which will do President Johnson's bidding without a whimper or a question, bears little or no resemblance to the democratic process.

Last week Representative Adam Clayton Powell gave us one of the clearest examples of legislative dictatorship ever witnessed in Washington. When the controversial bill to repeal Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Law was before the House, the Harlem Congressman utilized the power of his position as Chairman of the Education and Labor Committee to bring a resolution before the House which would prevent the offering of significant amendments to the bill.

Congresswoman Edith Green (D- Ore.), a dedicated liberal and proven friend of organized labor, desired to offer an amendment which would allow individuals to refuse to join a labor union on religious belief. Congressman Griffin (R-Mich.) wanted to offer an amendment prohibiting union officials from using members' dues for political purposes. But they and other members were to be denied because of the power which rested in the hands of Adam Clayton Powell. He refused to yield a single minute to any other Member for the purpose of amending the resolution to allow consideration of the Green and Griffin amendments.

During consideration of the bill to extend President Johnson's "War on Poverty" two weeks ago, Powell again cracked the whip and the House of Representatives danced. Because Powell was in Puerto Rico, Speaker McCormack was forced to postpone consideration of the Poverty Bill until Powell decided to return. When the bill was finally considered at his convenience, he promised that legitimate debate and the right to offer amendments would not be choked off. Then he created a situation where the sponsors of bona fide amendments were allowed only seventeen seconds to present their case.

So, under Powell's leadership, the House again parrotted Administration desires and blindly voted down every suggested change. It removed the loyalty oath required of Job Corps trainees and removed the present power of a Governor to veto a program within his own state. Then it shouted down amendments which would prevent political activity by Office of Economic Opportunity employees, would prohibit use of military personnel in the Poverty Program and would assure that at least 90% of poverty funds went to the poor instead of high salaried officials. A few weeks earlier, when Powell reigned over consideration of the Federal Aid to Education Bill, he again cut off true deliberation.

The practice of gagging the democratic process is becoming all to prevalent. In the consideration of the Housing Bill and the controversial rent subsidy program, dozens of amendments were not given fair consideration as the House rubber stamped the President's wishes. The same thing happened during consideration of the Voting Rights Bill. As a result, Texas and forty-two other states are exempt from its principal provisions.

Goodwill starts job training fund drive for handicapped

Vitally needed funds to enable continuation of its job training program for the vocationally handicapped will be sought in a campaign to be waged this month for Goodwill Industries of Santa Clara County.

Announcement of the campaign, a drive for "Training Scholarships for the Vocationally Handicapped," was made by W.J. Nicholson, president of the Goodwill Board of Directors, and Don Lathrop, executive director.

First formal fund campaign in the local Goodwill's history, the drive will begin the second week in August, with Nicholson as chairman. He will be aided by dedicated members of the Goodwill board, corporate body and women's auxiliary, and other outstanding community leaders.

"Our goal will be $100,000 in job training scholarships, 100 per cent of which will remain and work in Santa Clara and San Benito Counties," Nicholson said. "It will be divided into scholarship units of $900 each, representing the minimum cost of training one vocationally handicapped person for one year.

A locally autonomous non-profit voluntary social service agency, Goodwill is the only organization of its unique type serving both handicapped men and women of both Santa Clara and San Benito Counties. It provides realistic work evaluation, adjustment, training and actual work experience. Its vocationally handicapped job trainees are enrolled without regard to race, religious belief or handicap.

"Proceeds from the repair and sale of donated household articles and clothing provide job training and help pay opportunity wages to our trainees, based on productivity," Lathrop said. "So do proceeds from subcontract work done for industry.

"But these proceeds are no longer sufficient to enable continuance of our rehabilitation work at its present level with minimal services, much less improve and modernize our facilities and services as the times demand. Therefore, we must have financial help from the community which after all is the direct beneficiary of our services. Hence our first formal fund campaign is a vital necessity."

The $900 scholarship figure includes the average per-trainee cost of the use of buildings and equipment, services of the professional rehabilitation counselors and staff required to chart and guide job training, and minimal administration costs. It does not include the opportunity wages.

Goodwill last year served an average of 279 handicapped job trainees daily. In 1964 its handicapped workers earned a total of $589,636, and paid more than $90,000 in federal withholding taxes and social security.

Candlestick crash kills Ken O'Neill

Ken O'Neill Jr., 26, co-owner of the O'Neill and Ellis Lumber Co. of 640 Hamilton Ave., was killed last Saturday when his racing car flipped over during qualifying trials for the Candlestick Park road races. O'Neill was driving a Merlyn Climax.

Witnesses said O'Neill's car threw a wheel, then hit a guard rail and flipped over at turn four of the twisting course around the ball park. The race was called off Sunday when another driver, Bart Martin, of Hayward was killed.

O'Neill is survived by his wife, Sandra, and two children. The family home is at 4976 Bovina Drive, San Jose.

Our Town

By Grace Hebard

MRS. EDITH LARKIN, 250 Harrison, has returned recently from a two week vacation in Hawaii. She was visiting there with her son, PAUL S. LARKIN, and his wife, who are on their way to Australia for a year of study.

ROBERT WALTMAN, 1730 Ensenada Drive, Campbell, a Field Serviceman for Westinghouse has been transferred to Buffalo, New York. The WALTMANS have two sons, STEVEN, 5, and MARK, 7, and have lived in Campbell for nine years.

HAL BEATTY, formerly of Western Gravel Co., is now making his home in Corallitos, Calif., and is associated with Granite Construction Co. in Watsonville.

MR. AND MRS. AVERILL MIX, 14 Deborah Lane, have returned from a delightful vacation to Hawaii, accompanied by their two boys, Gregg and Alan... HENRY L. PAUL, P. E. Dept. Chairman at West Valley College, attended an intensive five day workshop in public relations at Colorado State College in Greeley during July.

Three boys from the Campbell area are enjoying the privilege of participating in the USMC "Devil Pups" camp program held at Camp Pendleton in Southern California. GLEN SCHANCK, DICK and STEVE CUNNINGHAM, Del Mar High School students, left July 27 for ten days of "boot training" at the Marine Base. Devil Pups, Inc. is a Marine program for teenage boys to participate in training comparable to a Marine recruit...

MR. AND MRS. ED (JERRY) LEWIS of 1700 Silacci Drive, welcomed a baby boy last week to be named Thomas Craig. They also have a little girl, Christine, 15 months old...
